

Community Comparisons

We all belong to communities. Your home, your school, your town, your country, and the world are all examples of a community, just like traditional Native American villages of Southern New England were communities. For each of the following items in this list, write who is responsible for those tasks in your community. In some cases, you might write more than one thing and different people might say different things, depending on the community in which you live.

Leading your community: _____

Getting or making food: _____

Making Household Items (tools, toys, etc): _____

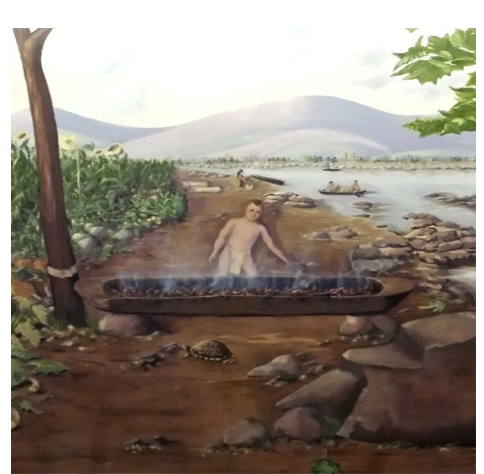

Building homes: _____

Sharing knowledge: _____

Caring for children: _____

Keeping people healthy: _____

Providing entertainment: _____

(Photos courtesy of the Institute for American Indian Studies)