

What's Your Story?

The items, or artifacts, in a museum don't actually have a voice, but they do tell stories. They give us information about the people that used or made them, and the cultures they lived in. Now, it's your turn! Choose an item that is special to you. It could be something you use almost every day, or something that you use on very special days. Tell the story of that item. Why is it important? What does it say about you?

Please feel free to share your story with us! Send stories as messages to @IAISMuseum on Facebook and let us know if we can share them with our audience.
